

The FCC should not implement any proposal that would lessen Indiana's Telephone Privacy law protections.

Indiana's Telephone Privacy law has protected me from unwanted heckling.

It has been an effective law; I used to receive 12 calls per week, now I only receive one a month. Now when the phone rings, chances are that the call is important.